

Digital Currency Foundation discuss regulation with UK MPs

Following on from the success of the first ever National Digital Currency Day, in the UK, the Digital Currency Foundation has been working with members of parliament in the UK to make sure that any new regulations are appropriate and meet the needs of the digital currency community.

Recently, Mihir Magudia (Managing Director of the Digital Currency Foundation) met with

Scott Mann MP,
Minister with the UK treasury

Norman Lamb
Chairman of the Parliamentary
Science and Technology committee

Barry Sherman
MP for Huddersfield,

Martin Whitfield
Member of the Science and Technology committee.

Mihir discussed LEOcoin and digital currencies with these MPs and will be working with them on these topics in the future.